II.2.4) Object of the contract:

Development of an operational EU policy-based marine ecosystem (services) assessment framework.

II.2.5) Short description of the contract:

The EEA is committed to supporting the EU Member States and European Mapping and Assessment of Ecosystems and their Services (MAES) until the end of 2014 (cf. target 2/action 5 of the EU 2020 biodiversity strategy). This inter alia implies EEA representation in the EU-level working group (WG) developing MAES, including co-authorship of relevant EU guidance for this type of assessment.

The purpose of the proposed contract is thus to develop an operational EU policy-based marine ecosystem assessment framework ('the framework') with a focus on the assessment of the potential marine ecosystem services' condition/status.

The framework should:

- a. include a specific assessment concept and an operational methodology delivering a highly aggregated, qualitative, driving forces/pressure/state/impact/response (DPSIR)-based marine ecosystem (services) assessment at the European level;
- b. use the data/information on the state of marine ecosystems available at the EU level, as these should be used as proxies for the potential service provision, and the same with the pressures and drivers upon them, which would affect the potential service provision;
- c. take into account the information available in the short (end of 2014)- and medium (2018–2020)-term.

II.2.4) Object of the contract:
Copernicus initial operations 2011–2013 — land monitoring service — local component: riparian zones — additional task related to framework service contract EEA/MDI/14/001 and service contract No 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/ EEA.55873 — satellite data acquisition.

II.2.5) Short description of the contract:
The overall objective of this contract is the provision of a set of satellite data to support the work under the previously awarded specific contract No 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/EEA.55873 implementing framework service contract No EEA/MDI/14/001. For the first 3 priority areas that will be mapped under specific contract No 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/EEA.55873 it was found that ESA's data warehouse does not provide a full area coverage of satellite data. The first areas to be mapped under specific contract No 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/EEA.55873 are the ones identified under priorities 1, 2 and 3 which were set by the following criteria: (1) focus first on EU-28 Member States, only secondly on the extension to EEA39; (2) focus secondly on the river basins that already have the highest percentage of coverage available in the data warehouse. To cover the gaps of CORE_03 it is requested to acquire satellite data from SPOT-5, SPOT-6 and Pleiades archive data for the reference year 2012 + 1, within vegetation season data gaps in the ESA CORE_03 dataset in order to cover 10 prioritised riparian zones delivery units.

II.2.4) Object of the contract:
Copernicus initial operations 2011–2013 — land monitoring service — local component: riparian zones — additional tasks related to framework service contract No EEA/MDI/14/001 and specific contract No 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/ EEA.55873 — satellite data acquisition.

II.2.5) Short description of the contract:
For the areas to be mapped under specific contract No 3436/R0-GIO/B2014/EEA.55873 (with the exception of those already acquired under service contract 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/EEA.55924, it was found that ESA's data warehouse does not provide a full area coverage of the relevant CORE_03 satellite data within the vegetation season as required by the riparian zones project. These priority areas to be mapped under specific contract No 3436/R0 GIO/B2014/EEA.55873 are the ones identified under priorities 1 to 21, and are additional to or complement those already addressed by service contract 3436/B2014/R0-GIO/EEA.55924. The priorities were set by the following criteria:

1. focus first on EU-28 MS, only secondly on the extension to EEA39, with the exception of Iceland and Norway who are full contributing members of the Copernicus programme;
2. focus secondly on delivery units that already have the highest percentage of coverage available in the DWH;
3. focus on delivery units for which a high completion status after gap filling with the envisaged satellite missions can be reached;
4. preference for gap filling in delivery units where the unit prices are such as to address the highest possible number of units within the available budget frame.

To cover the riparian zones-specific gaps of CORE_03 it is requested to acquire satellite data from satellites SPOT-5, SPOT-6 and Pleiades archive data for the reference year 2012 ± 2 years in order to largely fill the current within-vegetation-season data gaps in the ESA CORE_03 dataset in order to cover the prioritised riparian zones delivery units from 1 to 29.
